

Why Outsource IT Staffing?

In an effort to strike a balance between effectively managing IT solutions and increasing attention to core business functionality, companies of all sizes are looking to outside experts to help manage IT operations that are not key to their central business mission. Outsourcing IT staffing allows company managers to focus on their core competencies while at the same time reducing costs, maximizing efficiencies and gaining value for the company.

Cost savings would be realized in terms of payroll, payroll taxes, health care benefits, and any other fringe benefits that your company may offer its current employees. In addition to these savings, another significant benefit is having the knowledge and experience of a team of IT professionals at your disposal. While one individual would be responsible for the day to day IT tasks at your company, there are other individuals at Solut!ons:AMS with specific knowledge bases that could be called in to help should the need ever arise.

Our mission for providing IT outsourcing services is to raise the business agility of our clients while reducing their overall IT costs and technology risks. Above all, the key advantage of outsourcing IT staffing needs is that it enables our clients to invest their resources into other activities. In the case of your company, our job would be to support your staff enabling them to focus all their time and energy into managing your organization and the clients that you serve rather than having to concern yourselves about your IT infrastructure.
